FROM THE EDITORS

NEWPORT PAPER 22

The twenty-second of our monograph series, China's Nuclear Force Modernization, edited by Lyle J. Goldstein with Andrew S. Erickson, is now available from the editorial offices and online. Professor Goldstein, of the Strategic Research Department of the College's Center for Naval Warfare Studies, has been at the forefront of recent research into China's future. In this project he has guided a handful of naval officers through the puzzle of China's ongoing nuclear modernization programs. With the able assistance of Andrew Erickson, these sailor-scholars have examined various aspects of nuclear modernization, from ballistic missile defense to nuclear command and control.

SCIENCE APPLICATIONS INTERNATIONAL CORPORATION (SAIC) PUBLICATION PRIZE

Timothy D. Miller and Jeffrey A. Larsen, both employees of SAIC, have won the 2004 SAIC Publication Prize in the category of economics, policy, and arms control, for their coauthored "Dealing with Russia's Tactical Nuclear Weapons: Cash for Kilotons," in our Spring 2004 issue. The award comprised a trophy, a small cash prize, and an opportunity to brief the article to the annual conference of senior company executives.
