PREFACE

"International Law Situations, with Solutions and Notes, 1938," has been prepared by Payson Sibley Wild, Jr., Ph. D., professor of international law, Harvard University, and associate for international law at the Naval War College. It covers problems which have been the subject of discussion by members of the senior and junior classes of 1939. The method followed has been to propound situations for consideration by members of the classes and, after critical discussion, to organize the material for publication.

While the conclusions reached as a result of the discussions are in no way official, the notes afford a convenient survey of material relating to the subject presented, and they should be of value for purposes of reference.

Criticism concerning the contents of this volume and suggestions regarding situations to be given consideration in subsequent volumes will be welcomed by the Naval War College.

C. P. SNYDER,
Rear Admiral, United States Navy,
President, Naval War College.

APRIL 6, 1939.

NOTE

Annually, since 1900, the Naval War College has published "International Law Situations, with Solutions and Notes." The volumes for the years 1901 to 1937, inclusive, were prepared by George Grafton Wilson, Ph.D., LL.D., professor emeritus of international law, Harvard University.

At the close of the College session, 1937-1938, Professor Wilson, at his own request, relinquished his duties as Associate for International Law, and was succeeded by Payson Sibley Wild, Jr., Ph.D., professor of international law, Harvard University.

Upon completion of Professor Wilson's address at the War College on April 4, 1939, the President of the College took occasion to recognize the valuable services of Professor Wilson, past and present, and to express to him the appreciation and esteem of the President and Officers of the Naval War College and of the Naval Service at large.

The Secretary of the Navy addressed a letter to Professor Wilson, expressing, on behalf of the many officers of the U. S. Navy who had enjoyed his association, their thanks for his valuable services, and extended his personal good wishes for the future.
